History

- Tennessee State University was founded in 1912. In 1909, the Tennessee State General Assembly created three normal schools, including the Agricultural and Industrial Normal School, which would grow to become Tennessee State University. The first 247 students began their academic careers on June 19, 1912. When President Hale retired in 1943 after more than 30 years of service, one of the institution's growing roster of impressive alumni, Walter S. Davis, was selected as his successor. Today, Tennessee State University offers 45 bachelor's degree programs and 24 master's programs and awards doctoral degrees .
